

Productivity has never been more secure when endpoint management solutions work as one.

Work can happen anywhere, anytime, on any device. With ZENworks® Endpoint Management solutions from Novell®, you can ensure your users always have the resources they need to be more productive. By automating IT service management, you can make changes once and deliver them across your entire network from a central location, saving time and money. Plus, policy-driven automation protects every device, regardless of location, so every endpoint is as secure as it is productive. Let us make IT work as one for you.
